

This is my short story - Merwin Roy

I was born in Kolkata, India on 26th December, 1998

However I have lived in Delhi, India for most part of my life.

and so my favorite comfort food changed from sweet rosogolla's

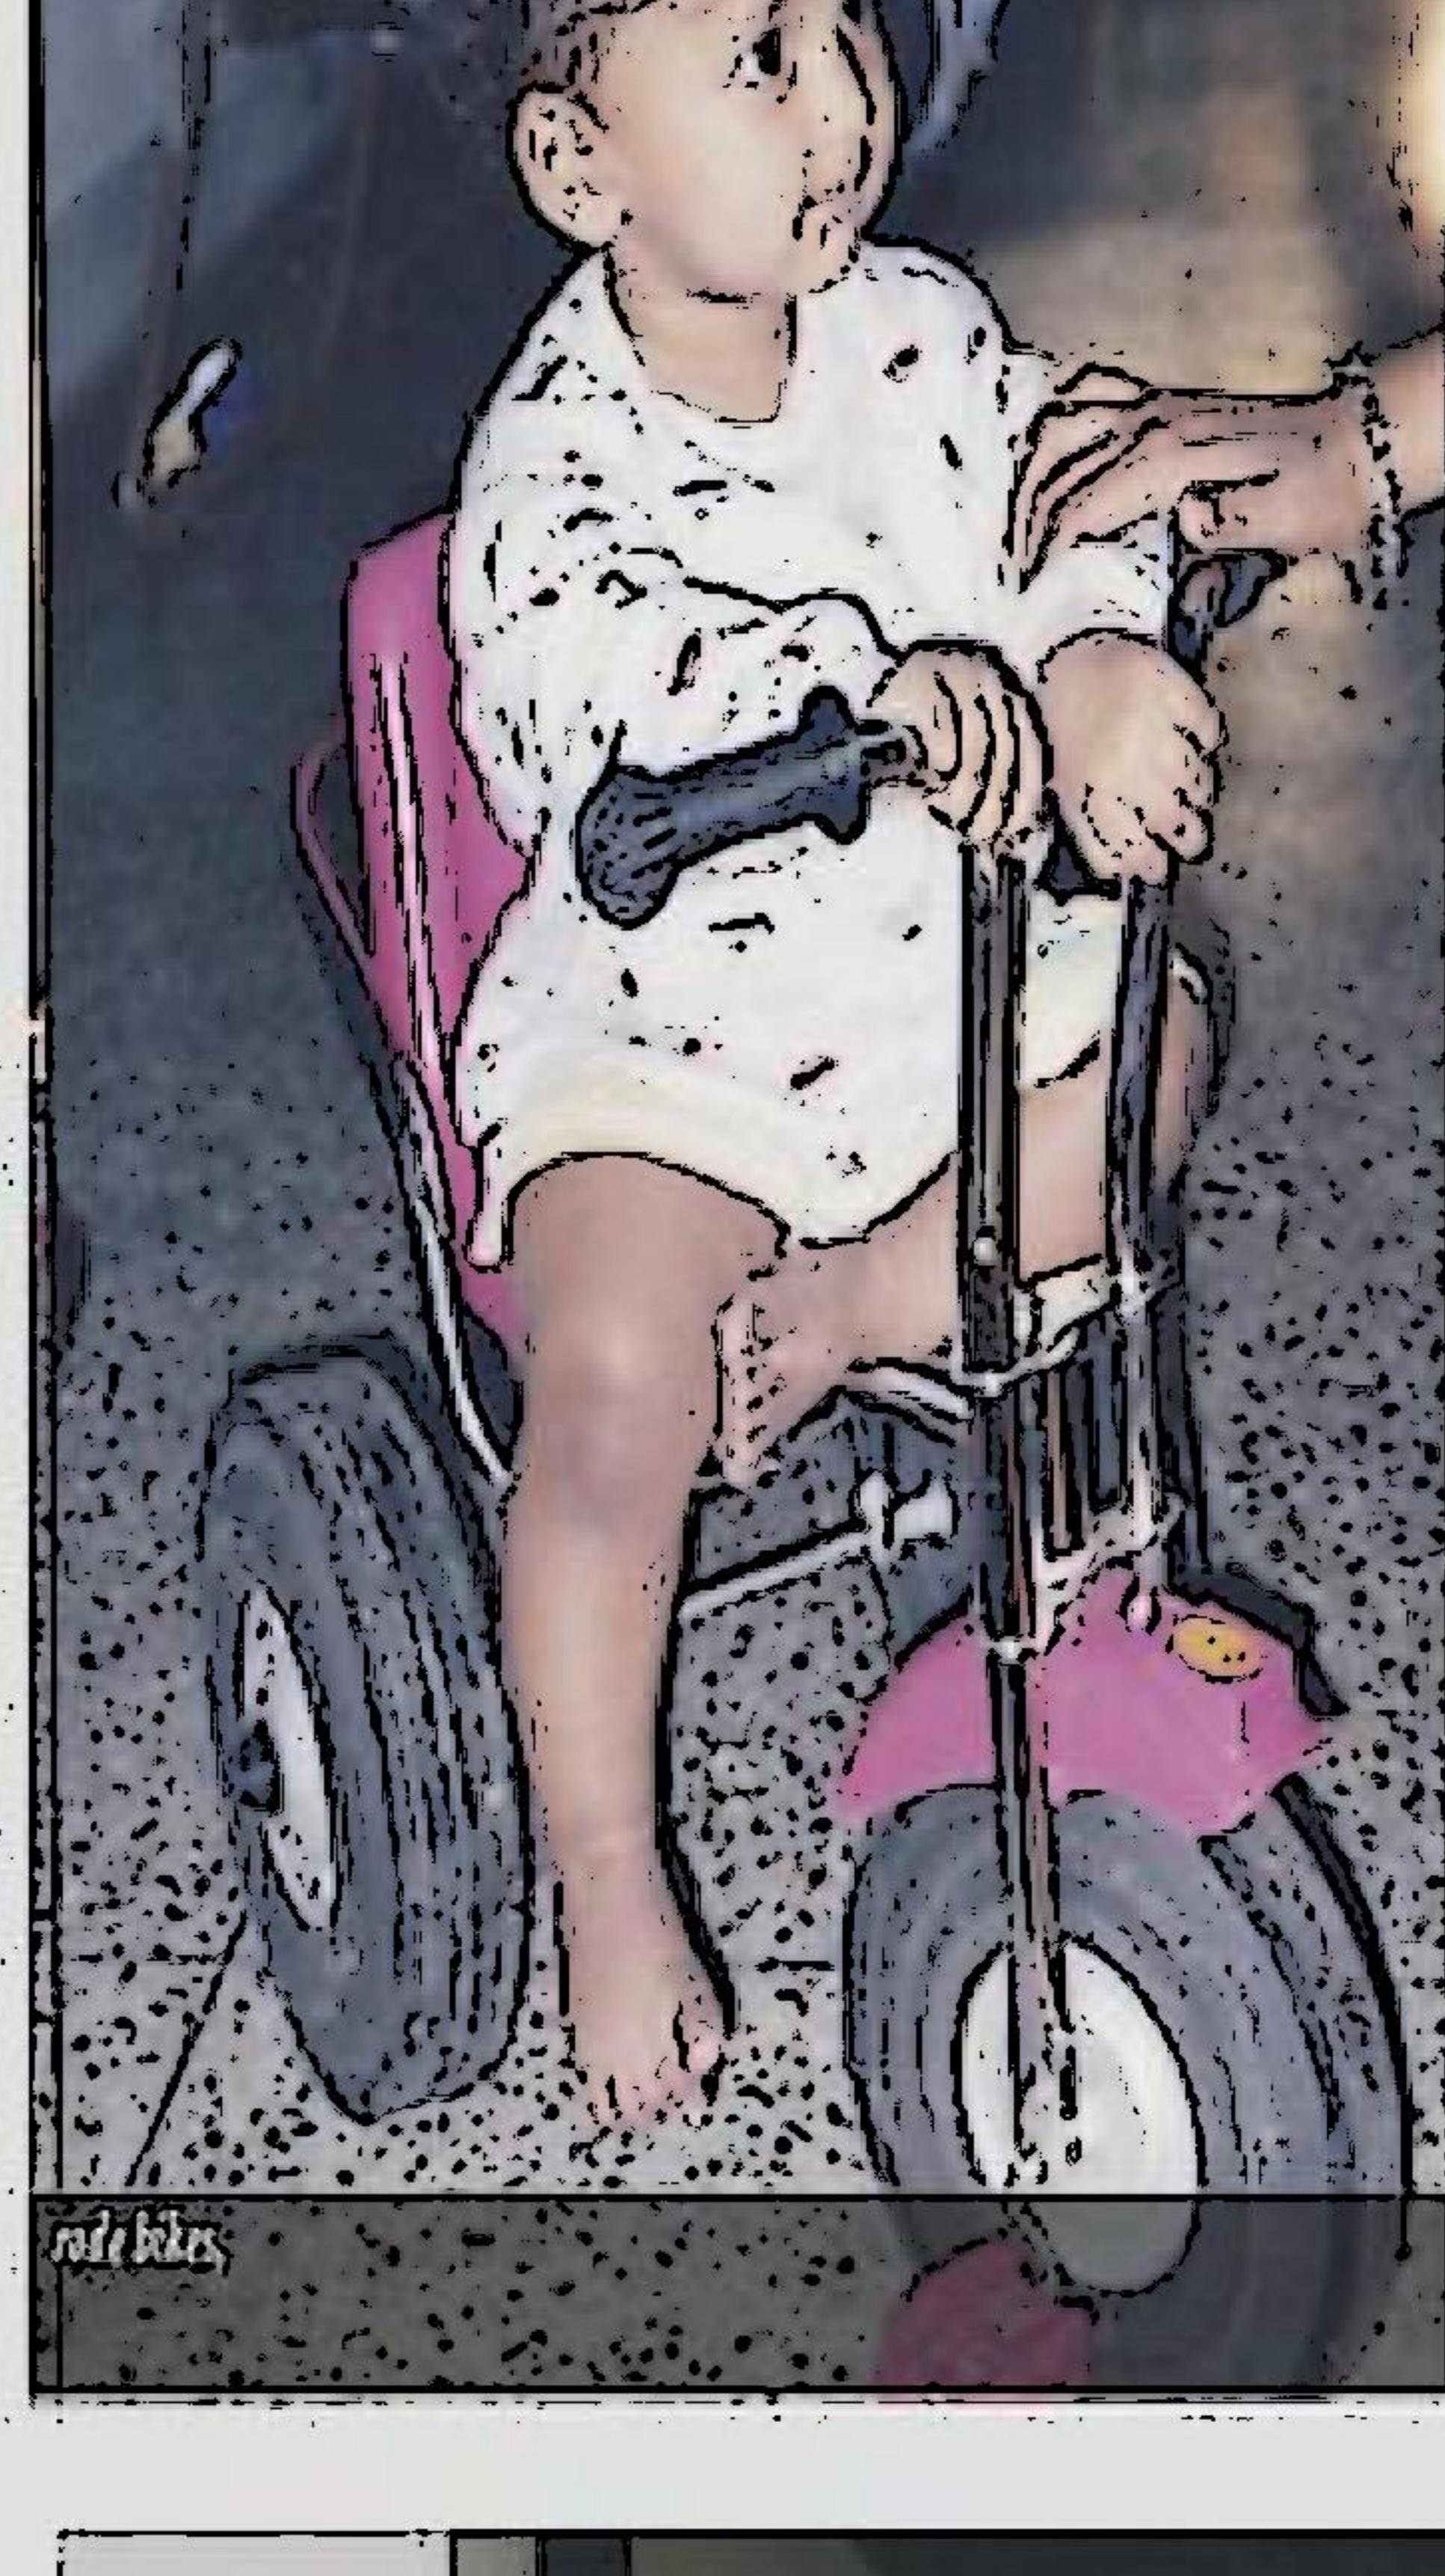

to spicy momos

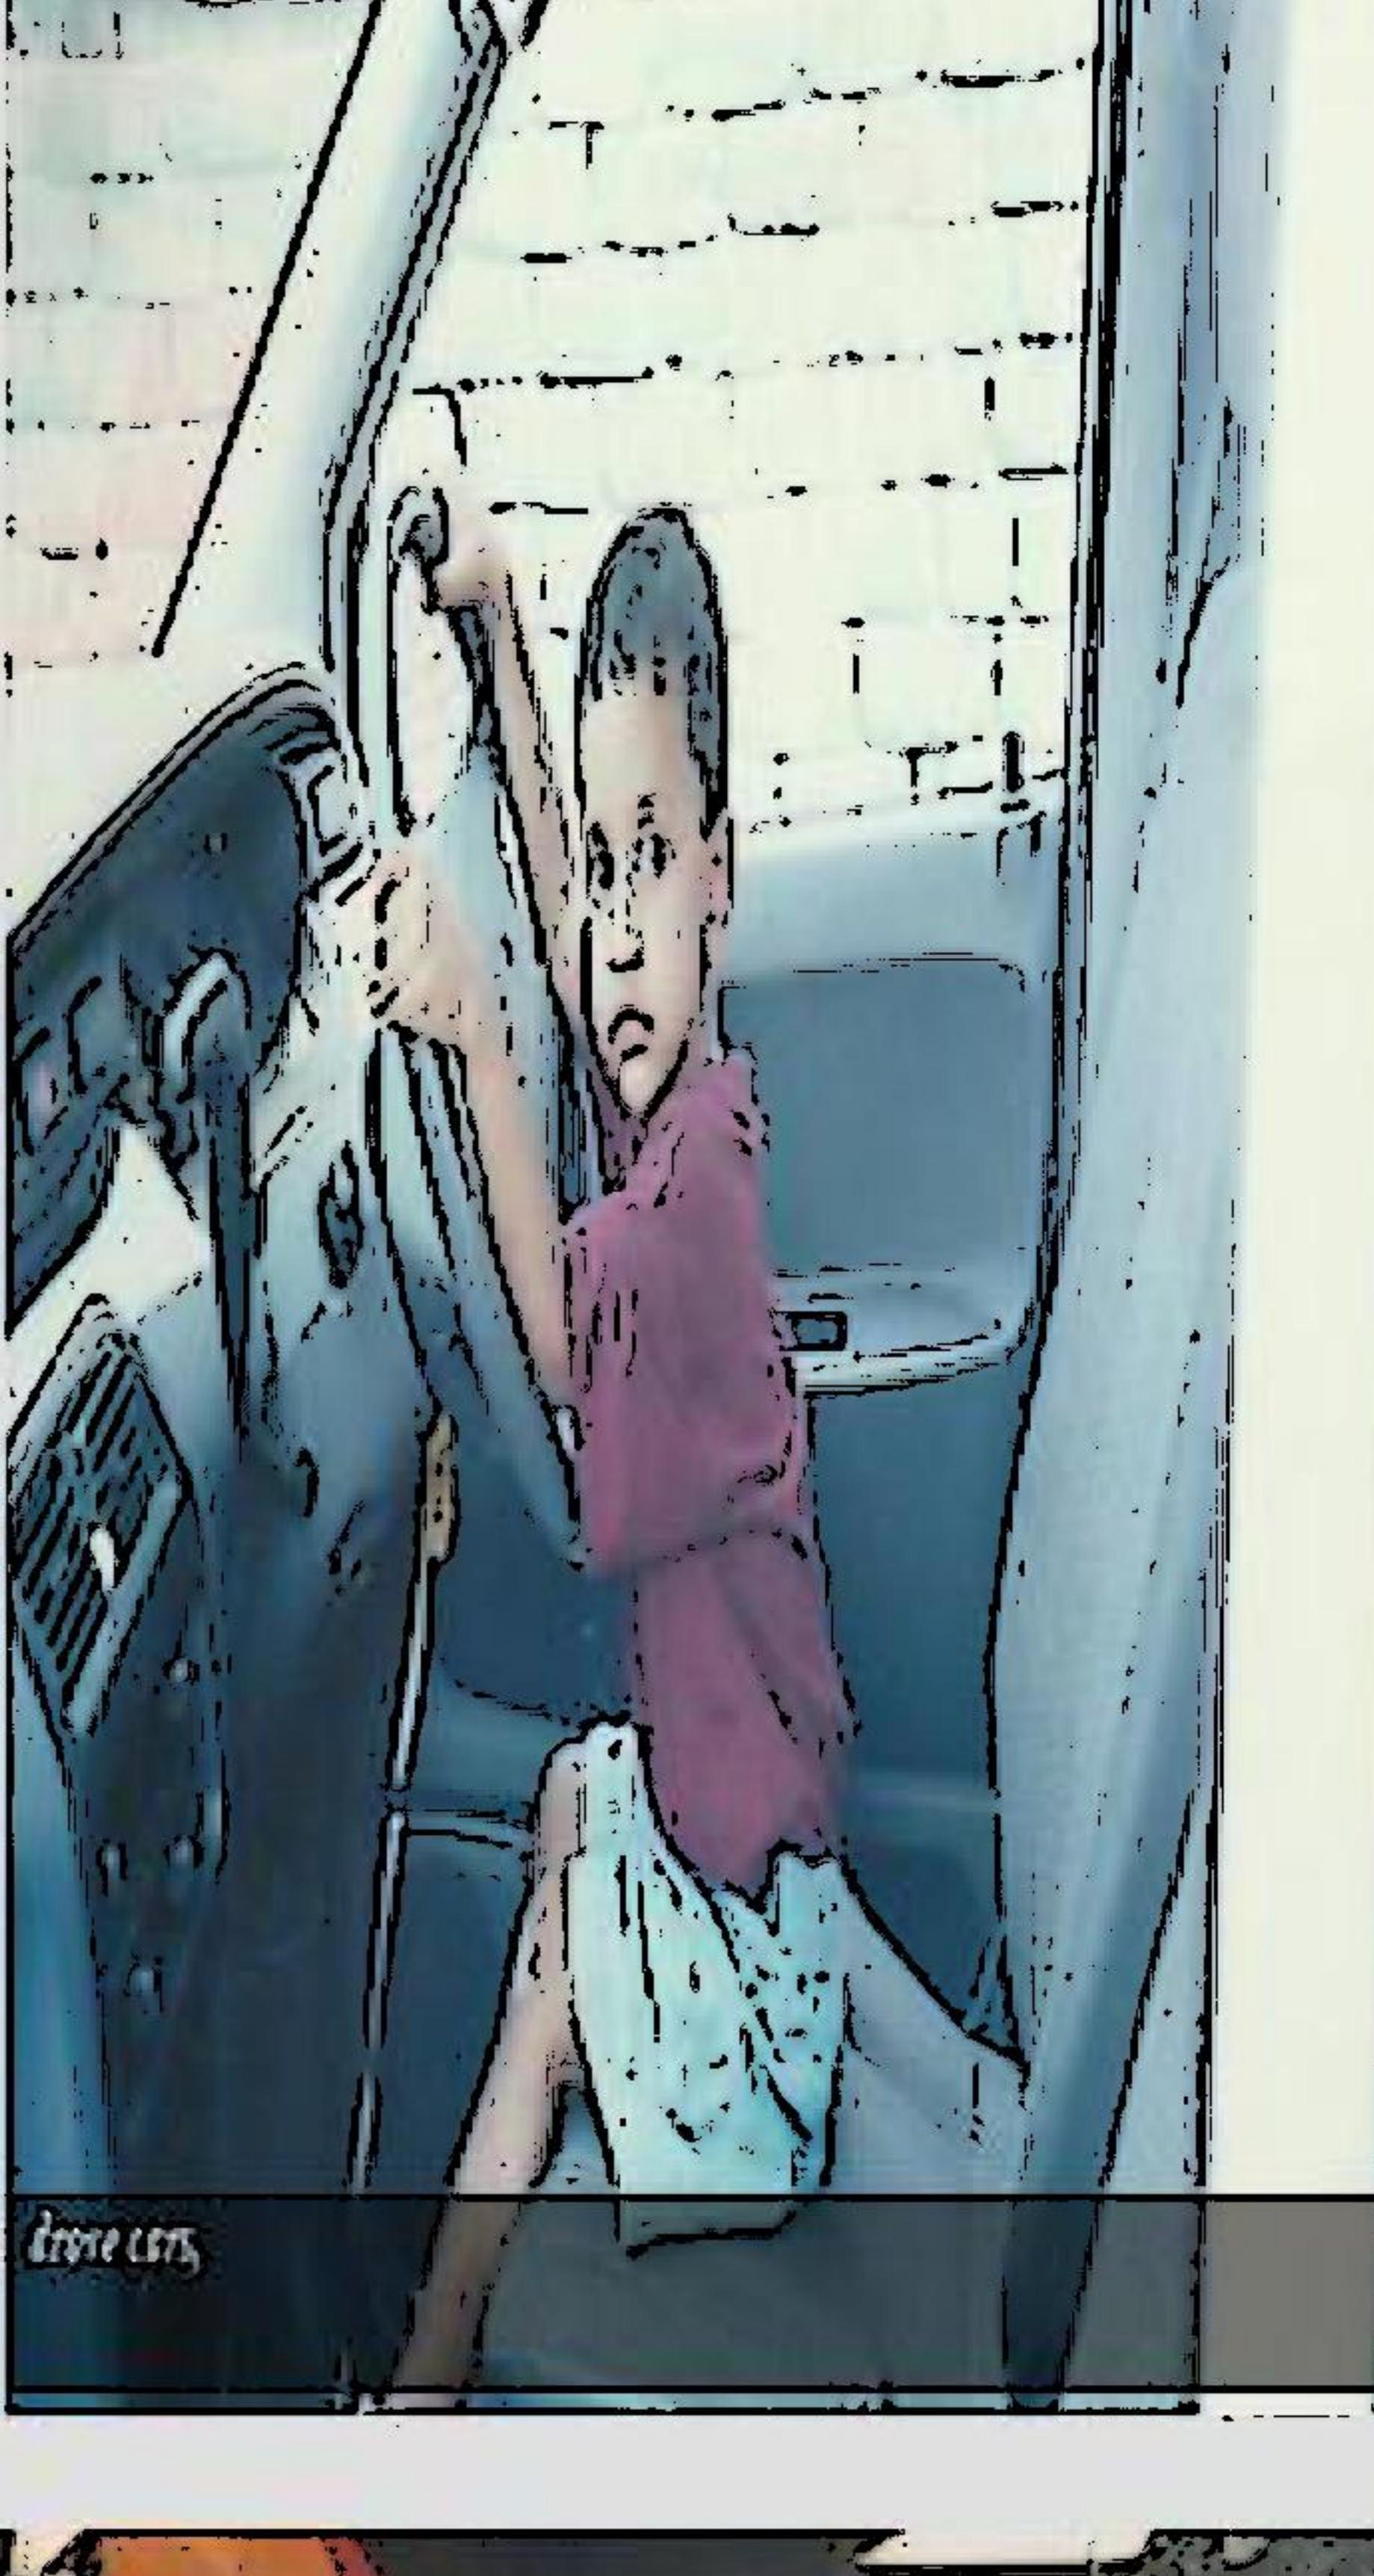

They always had a sense of style.

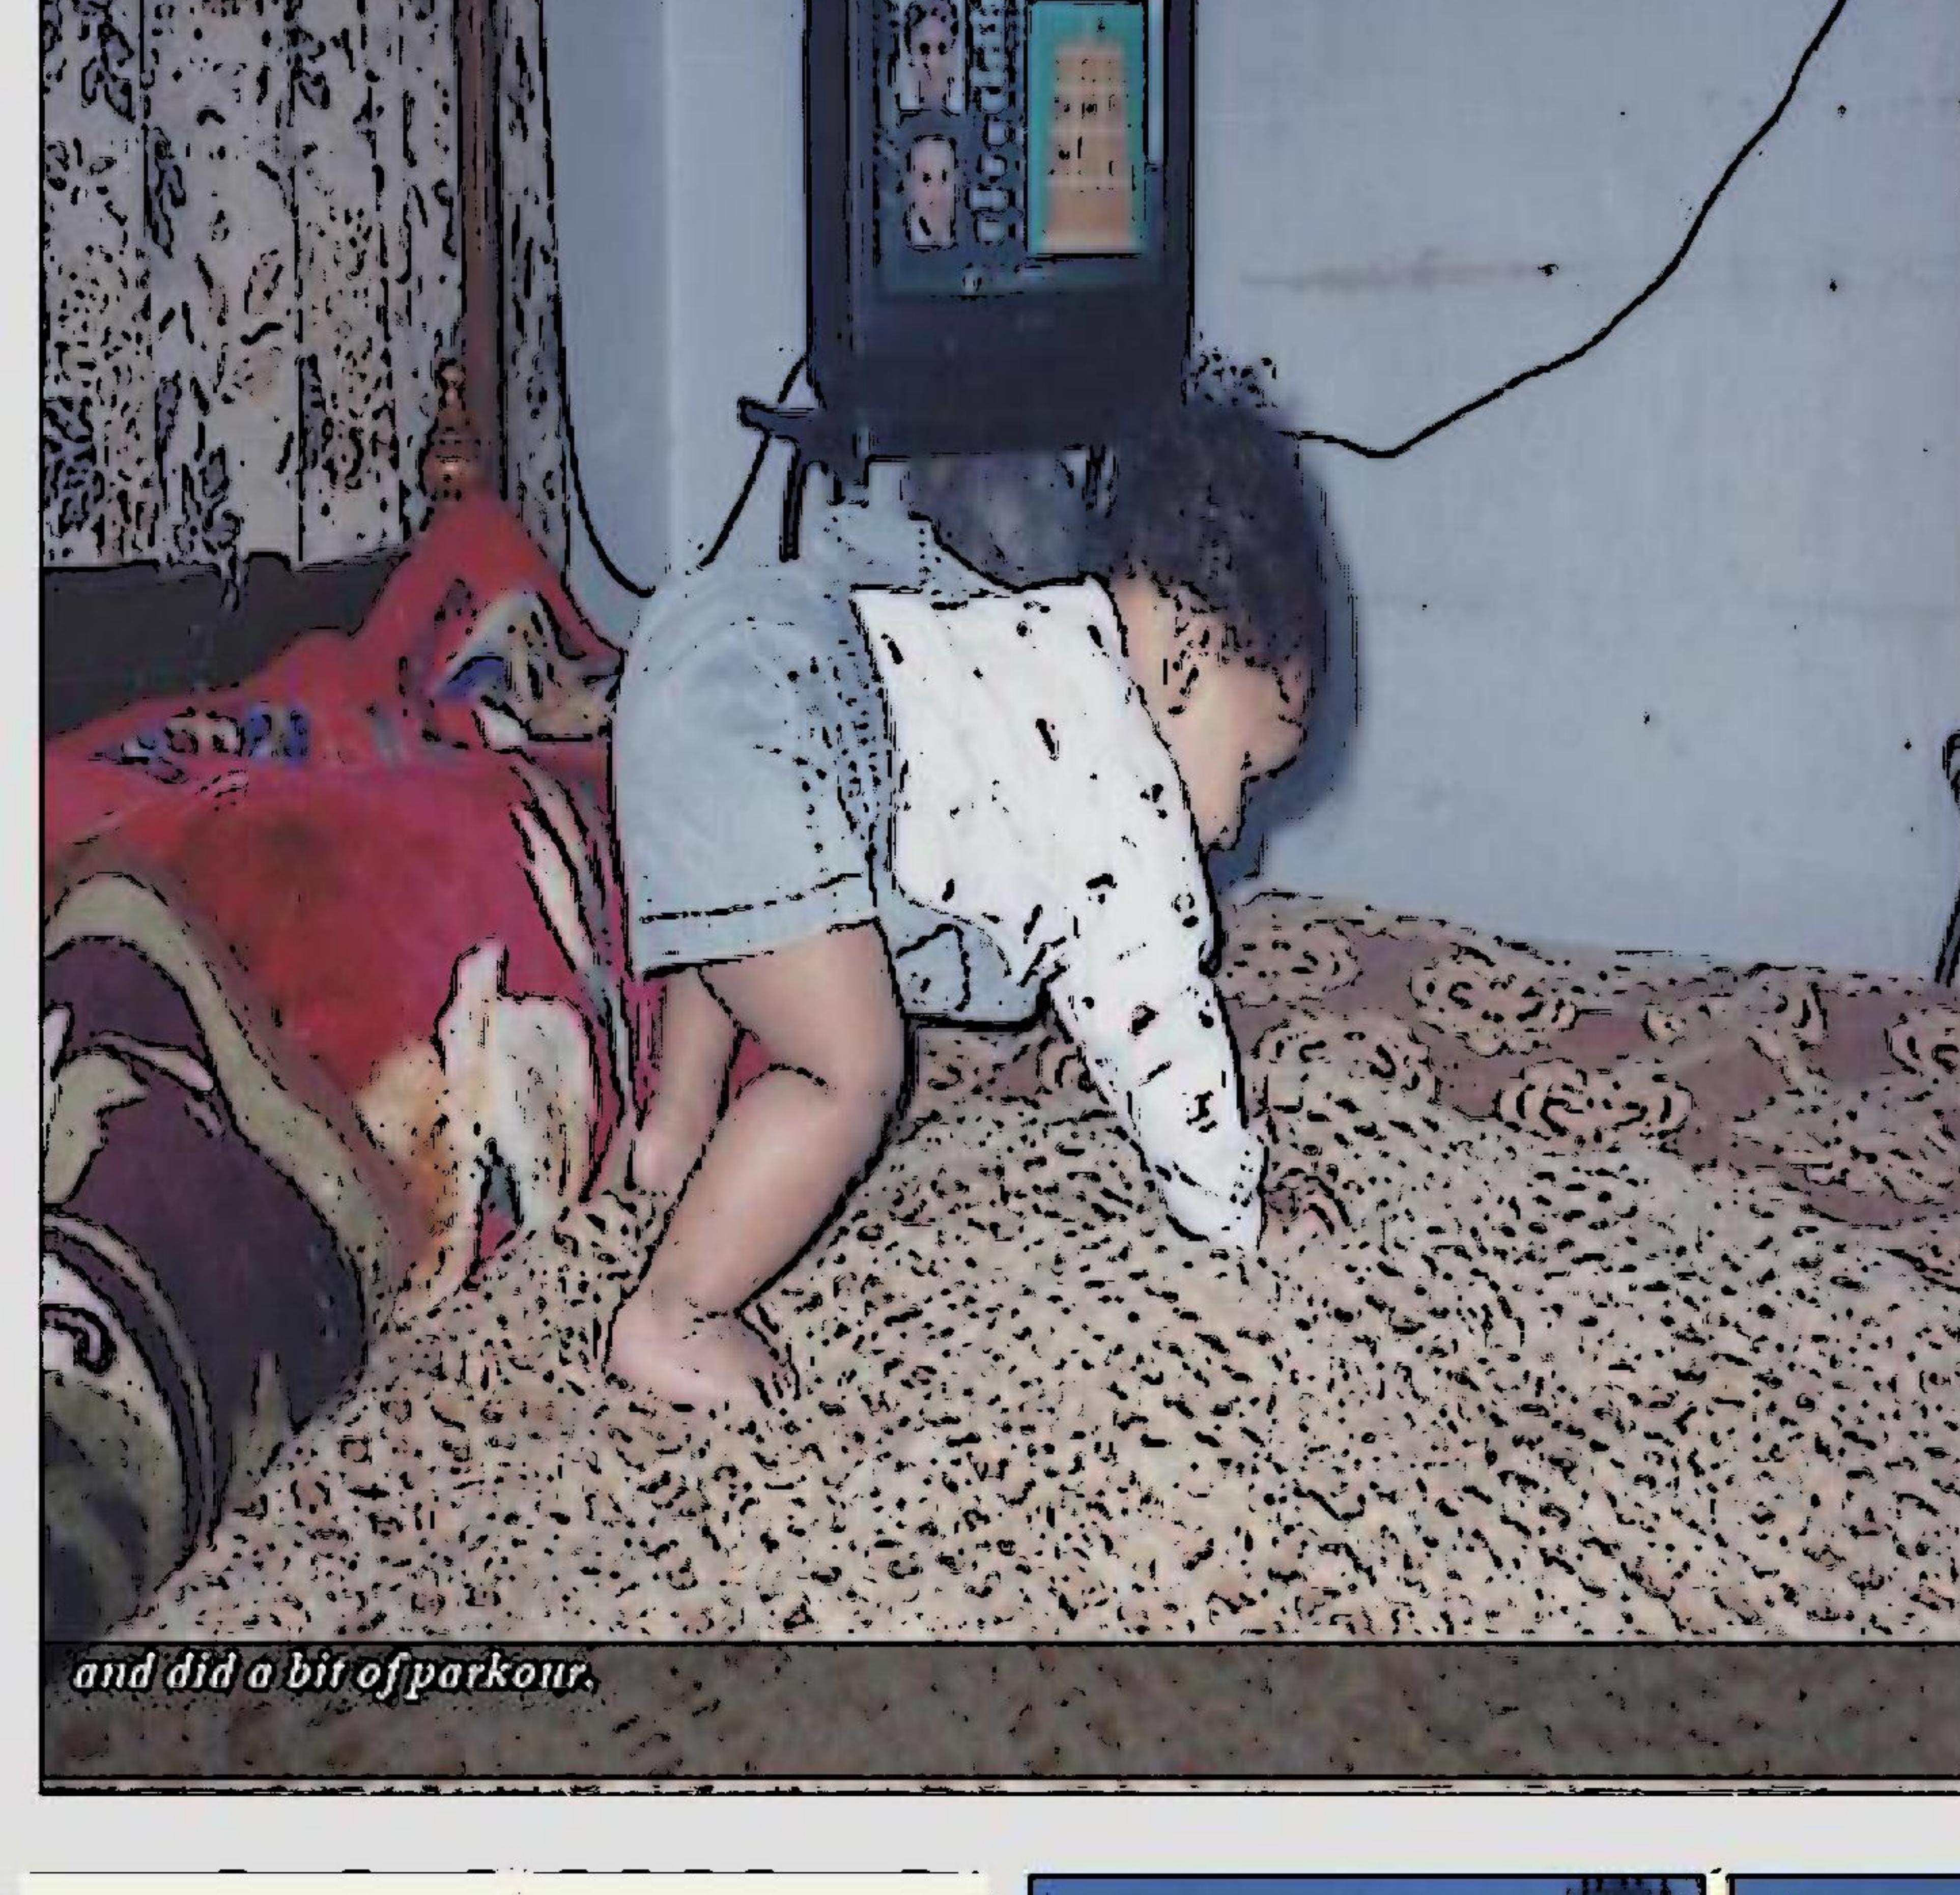

Love for sports

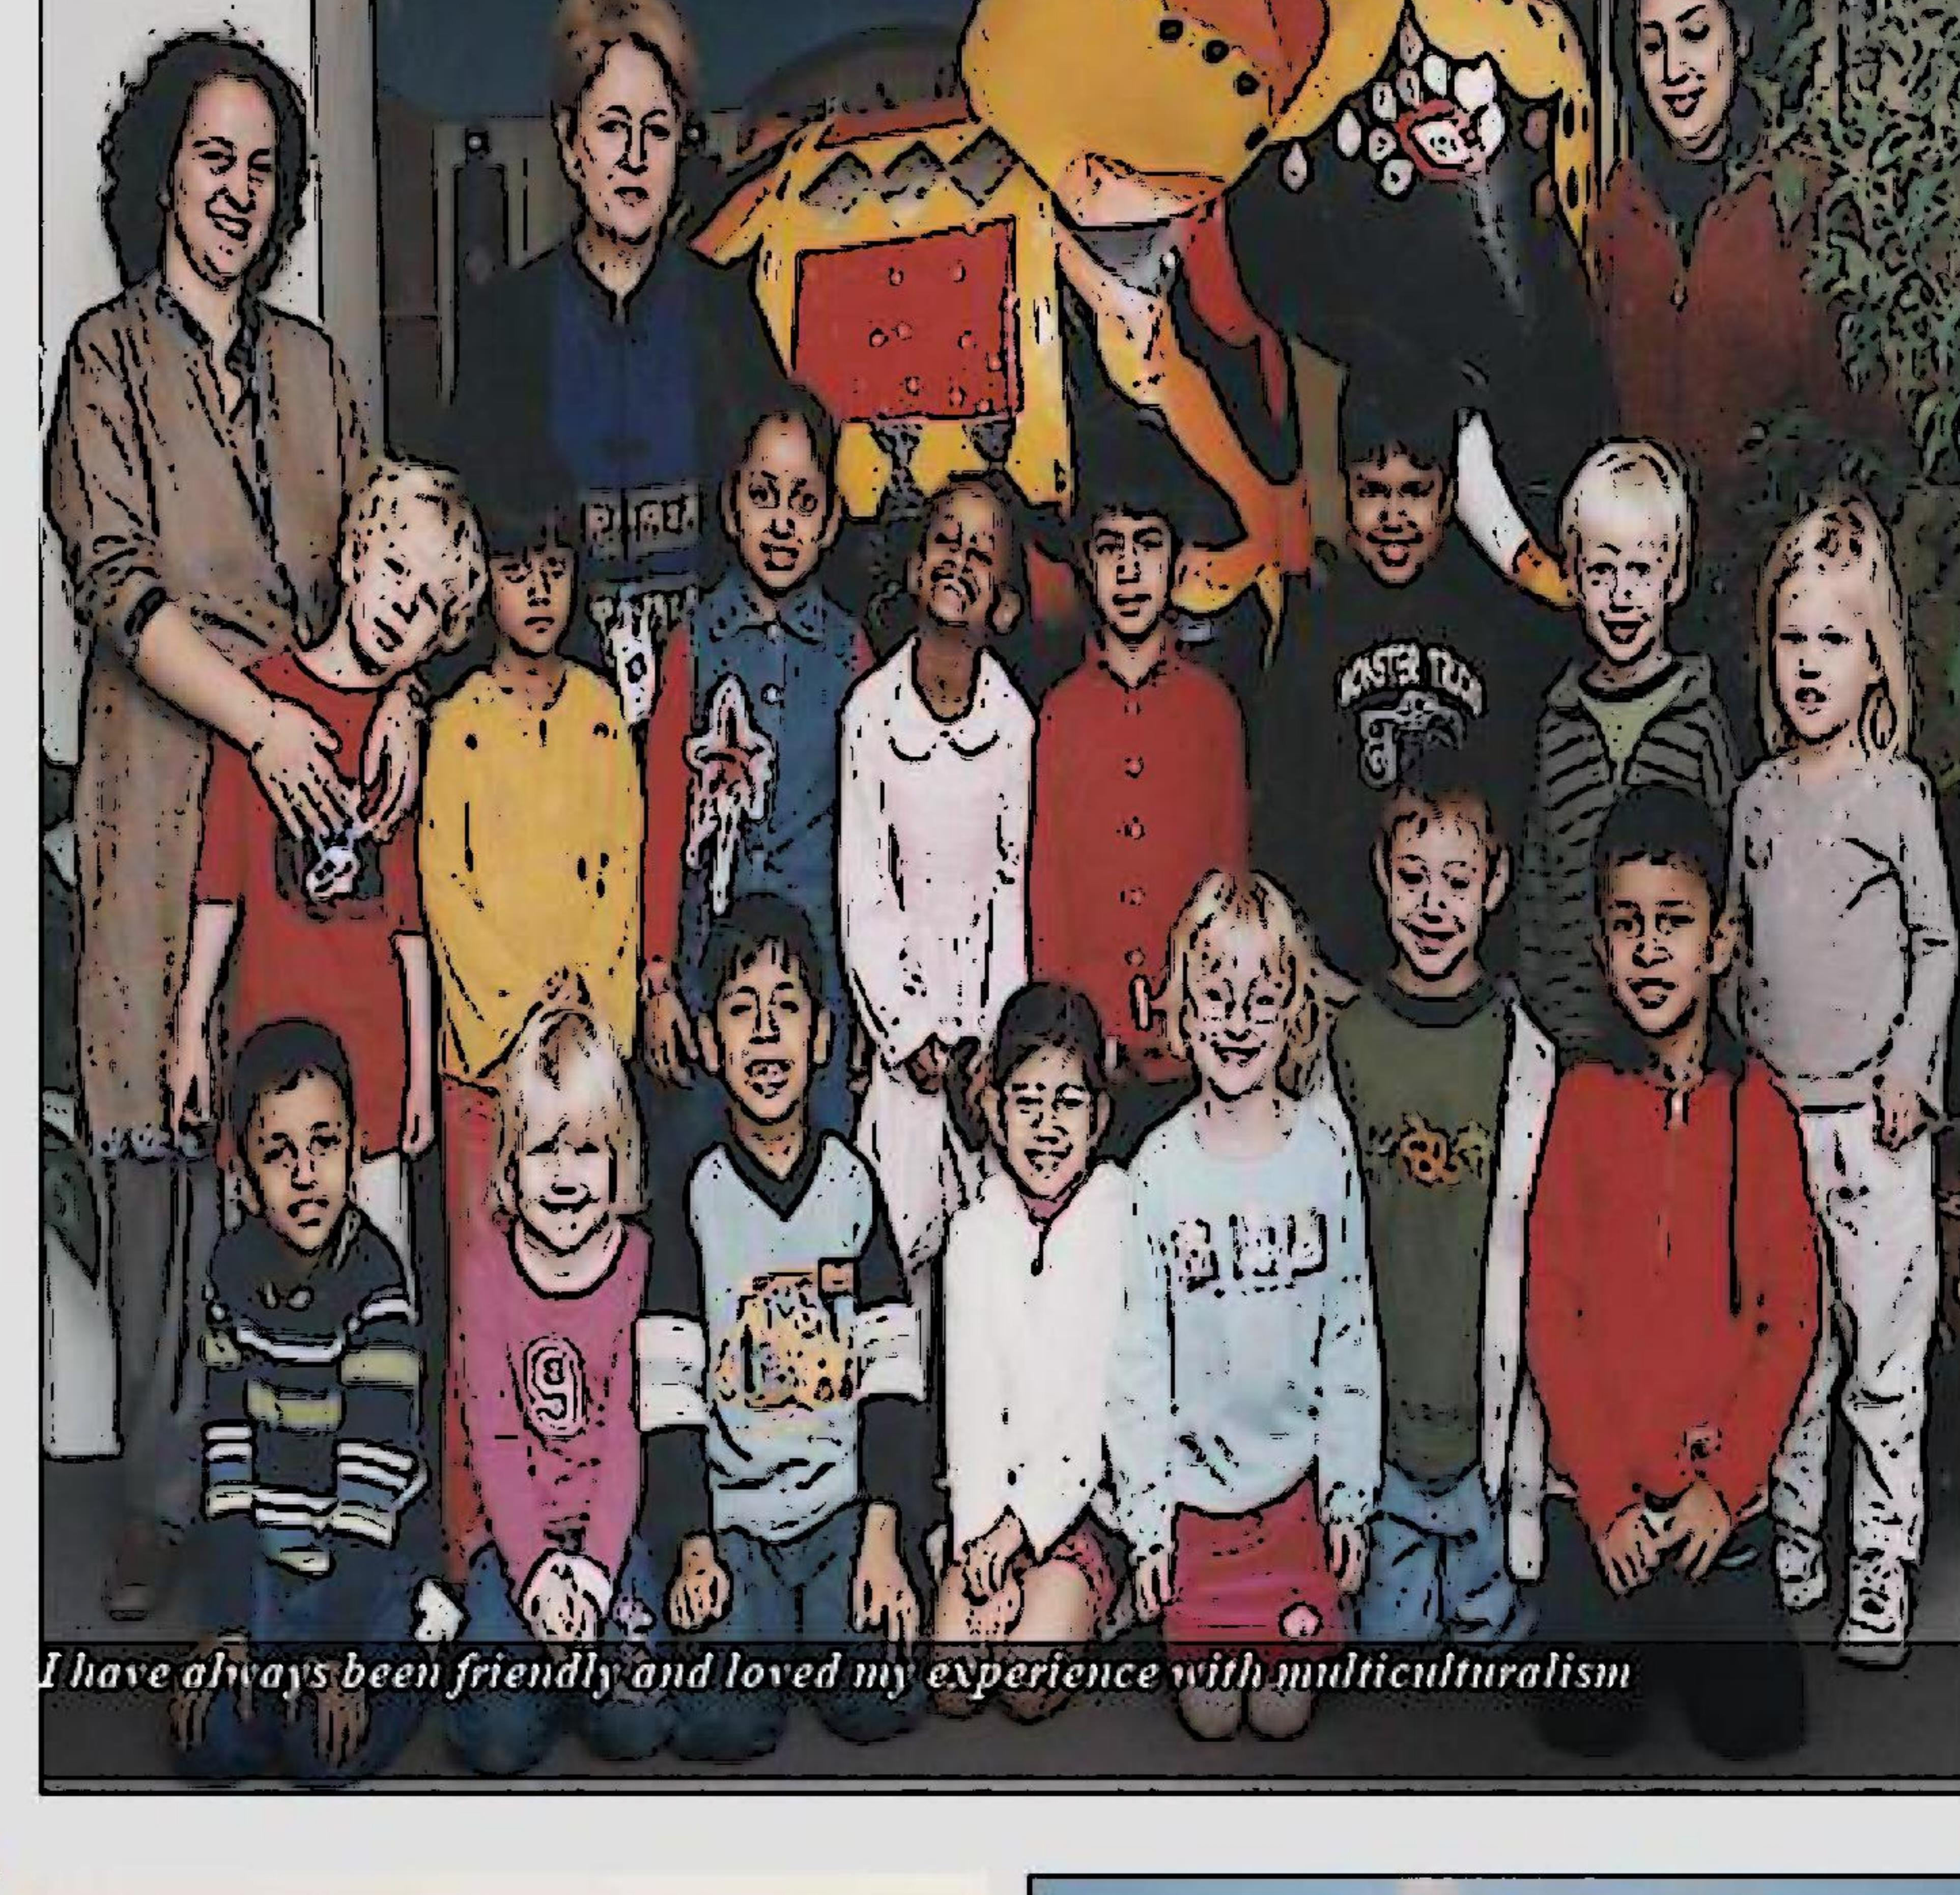

ride bikes

drive cars

and did a bit of parkour.

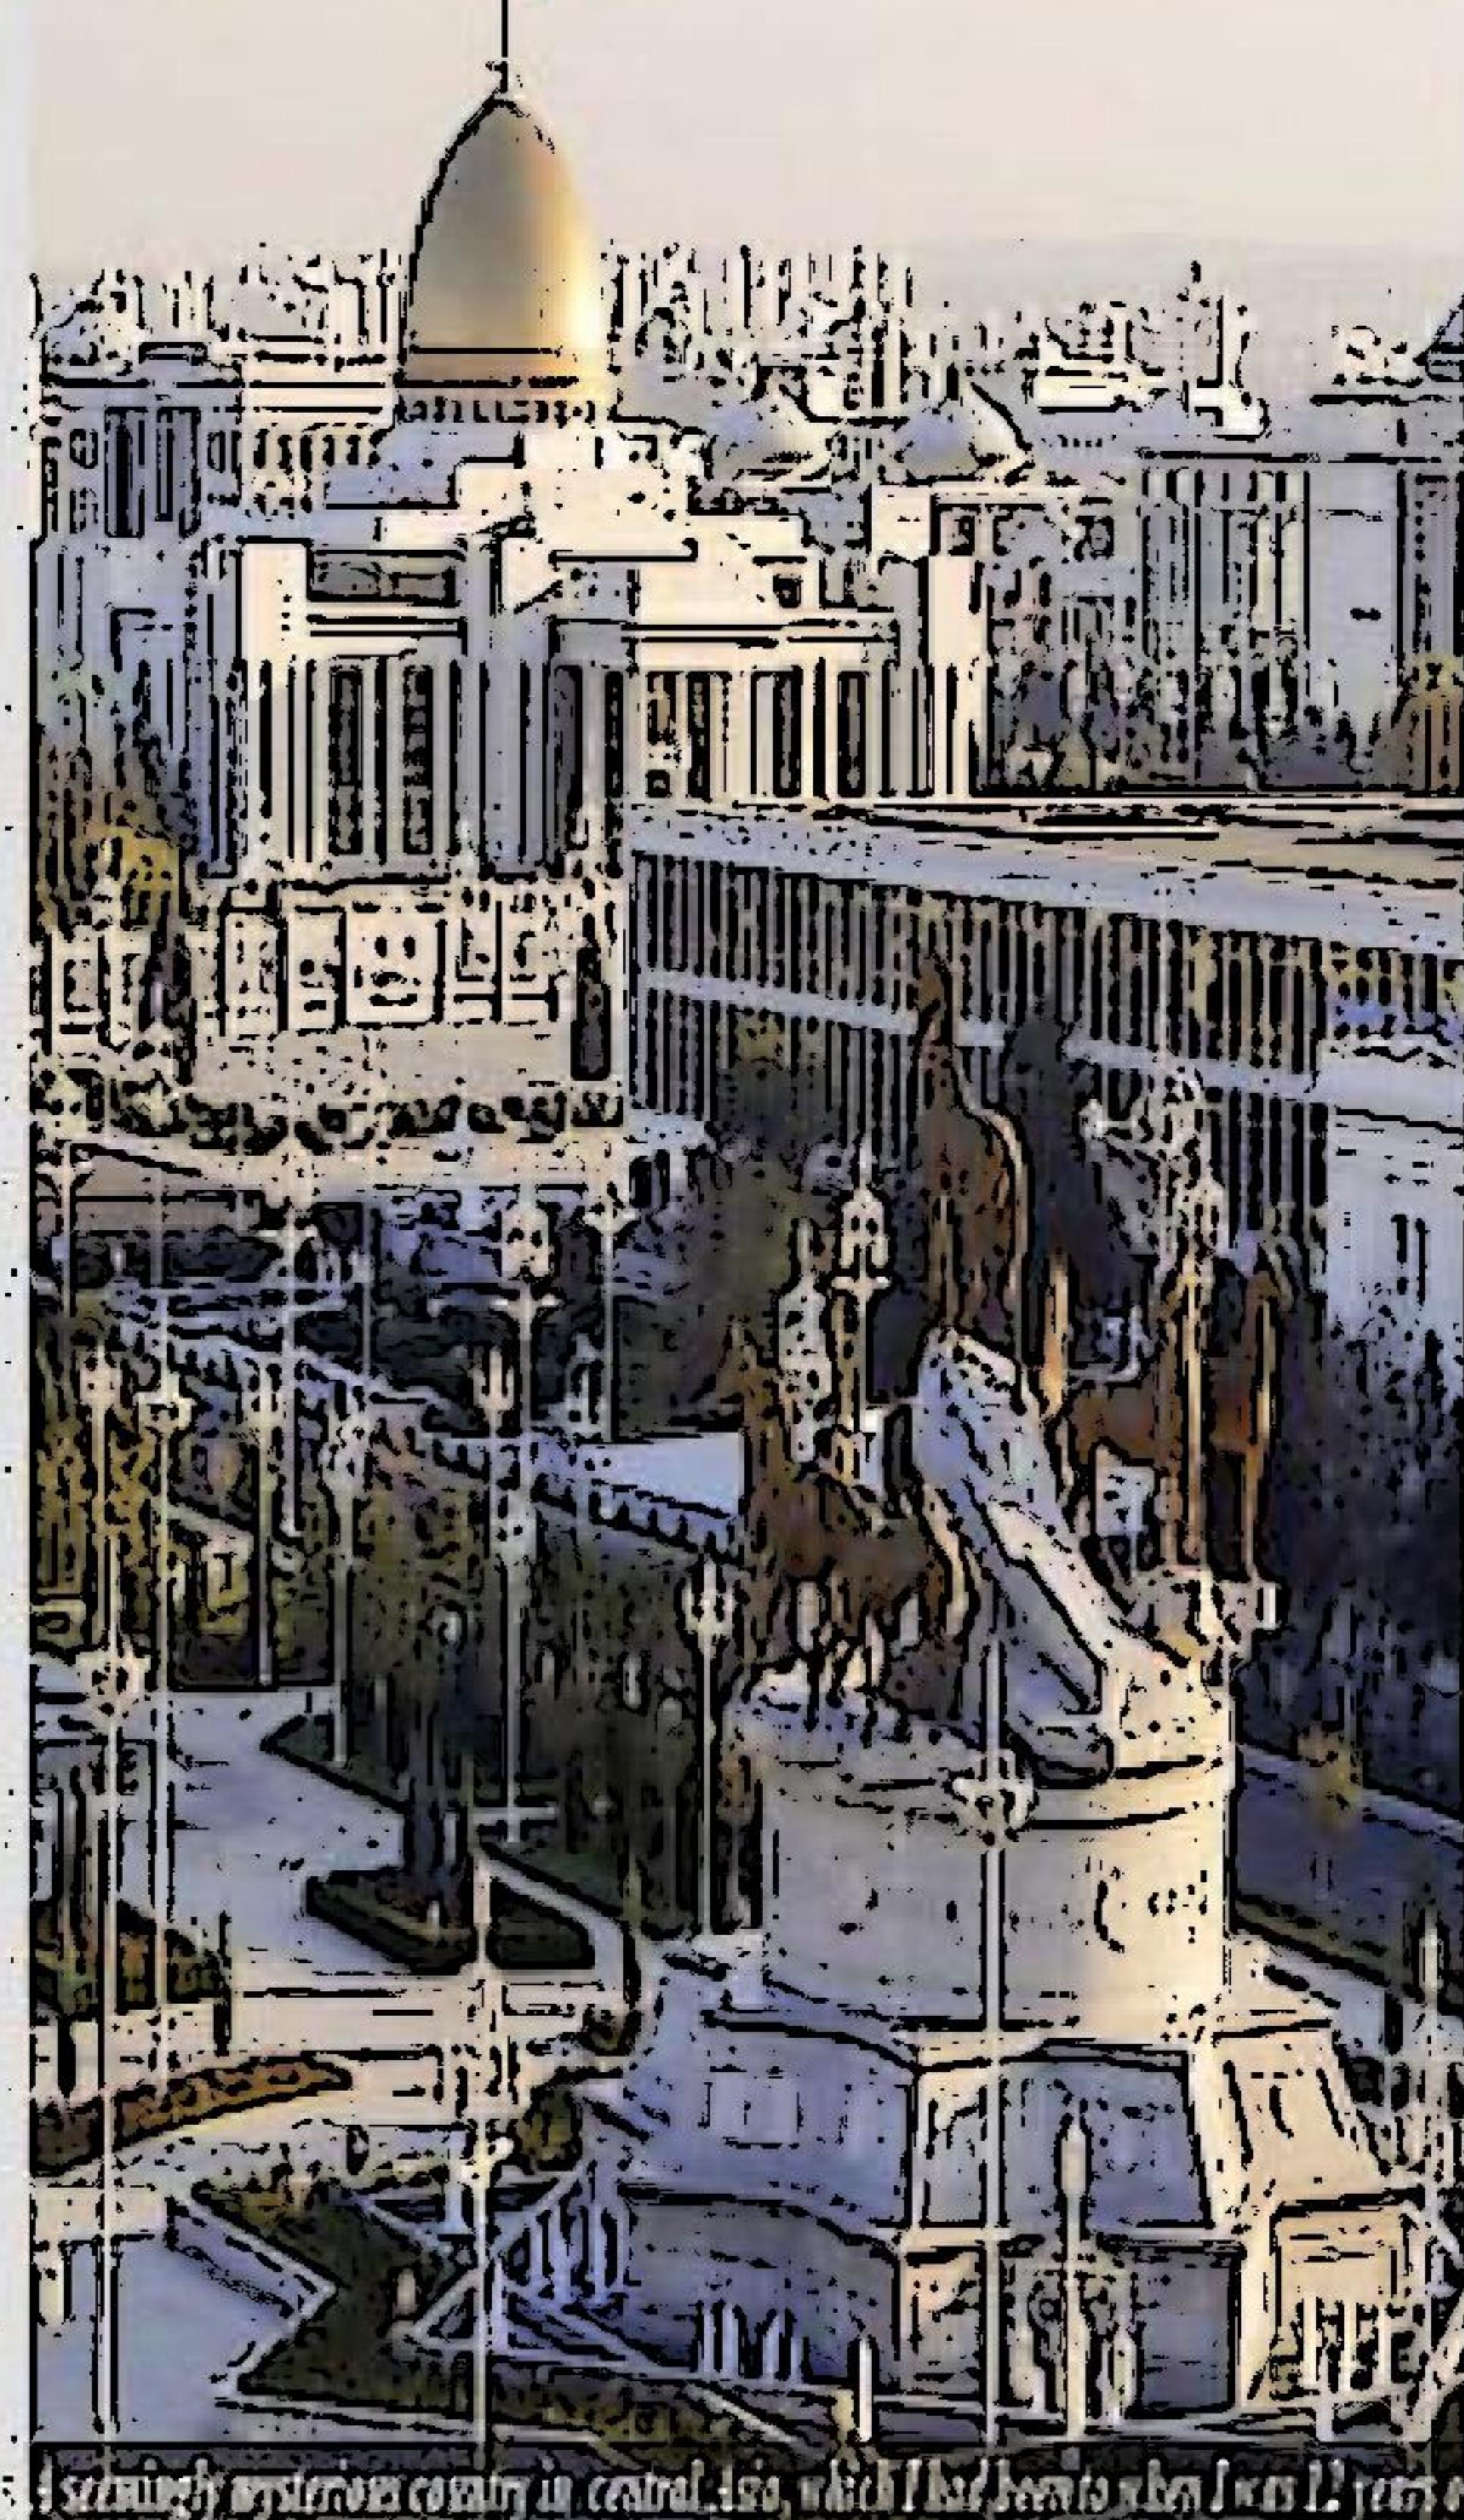

I have always been friendly and loved my experience with multiculturalism

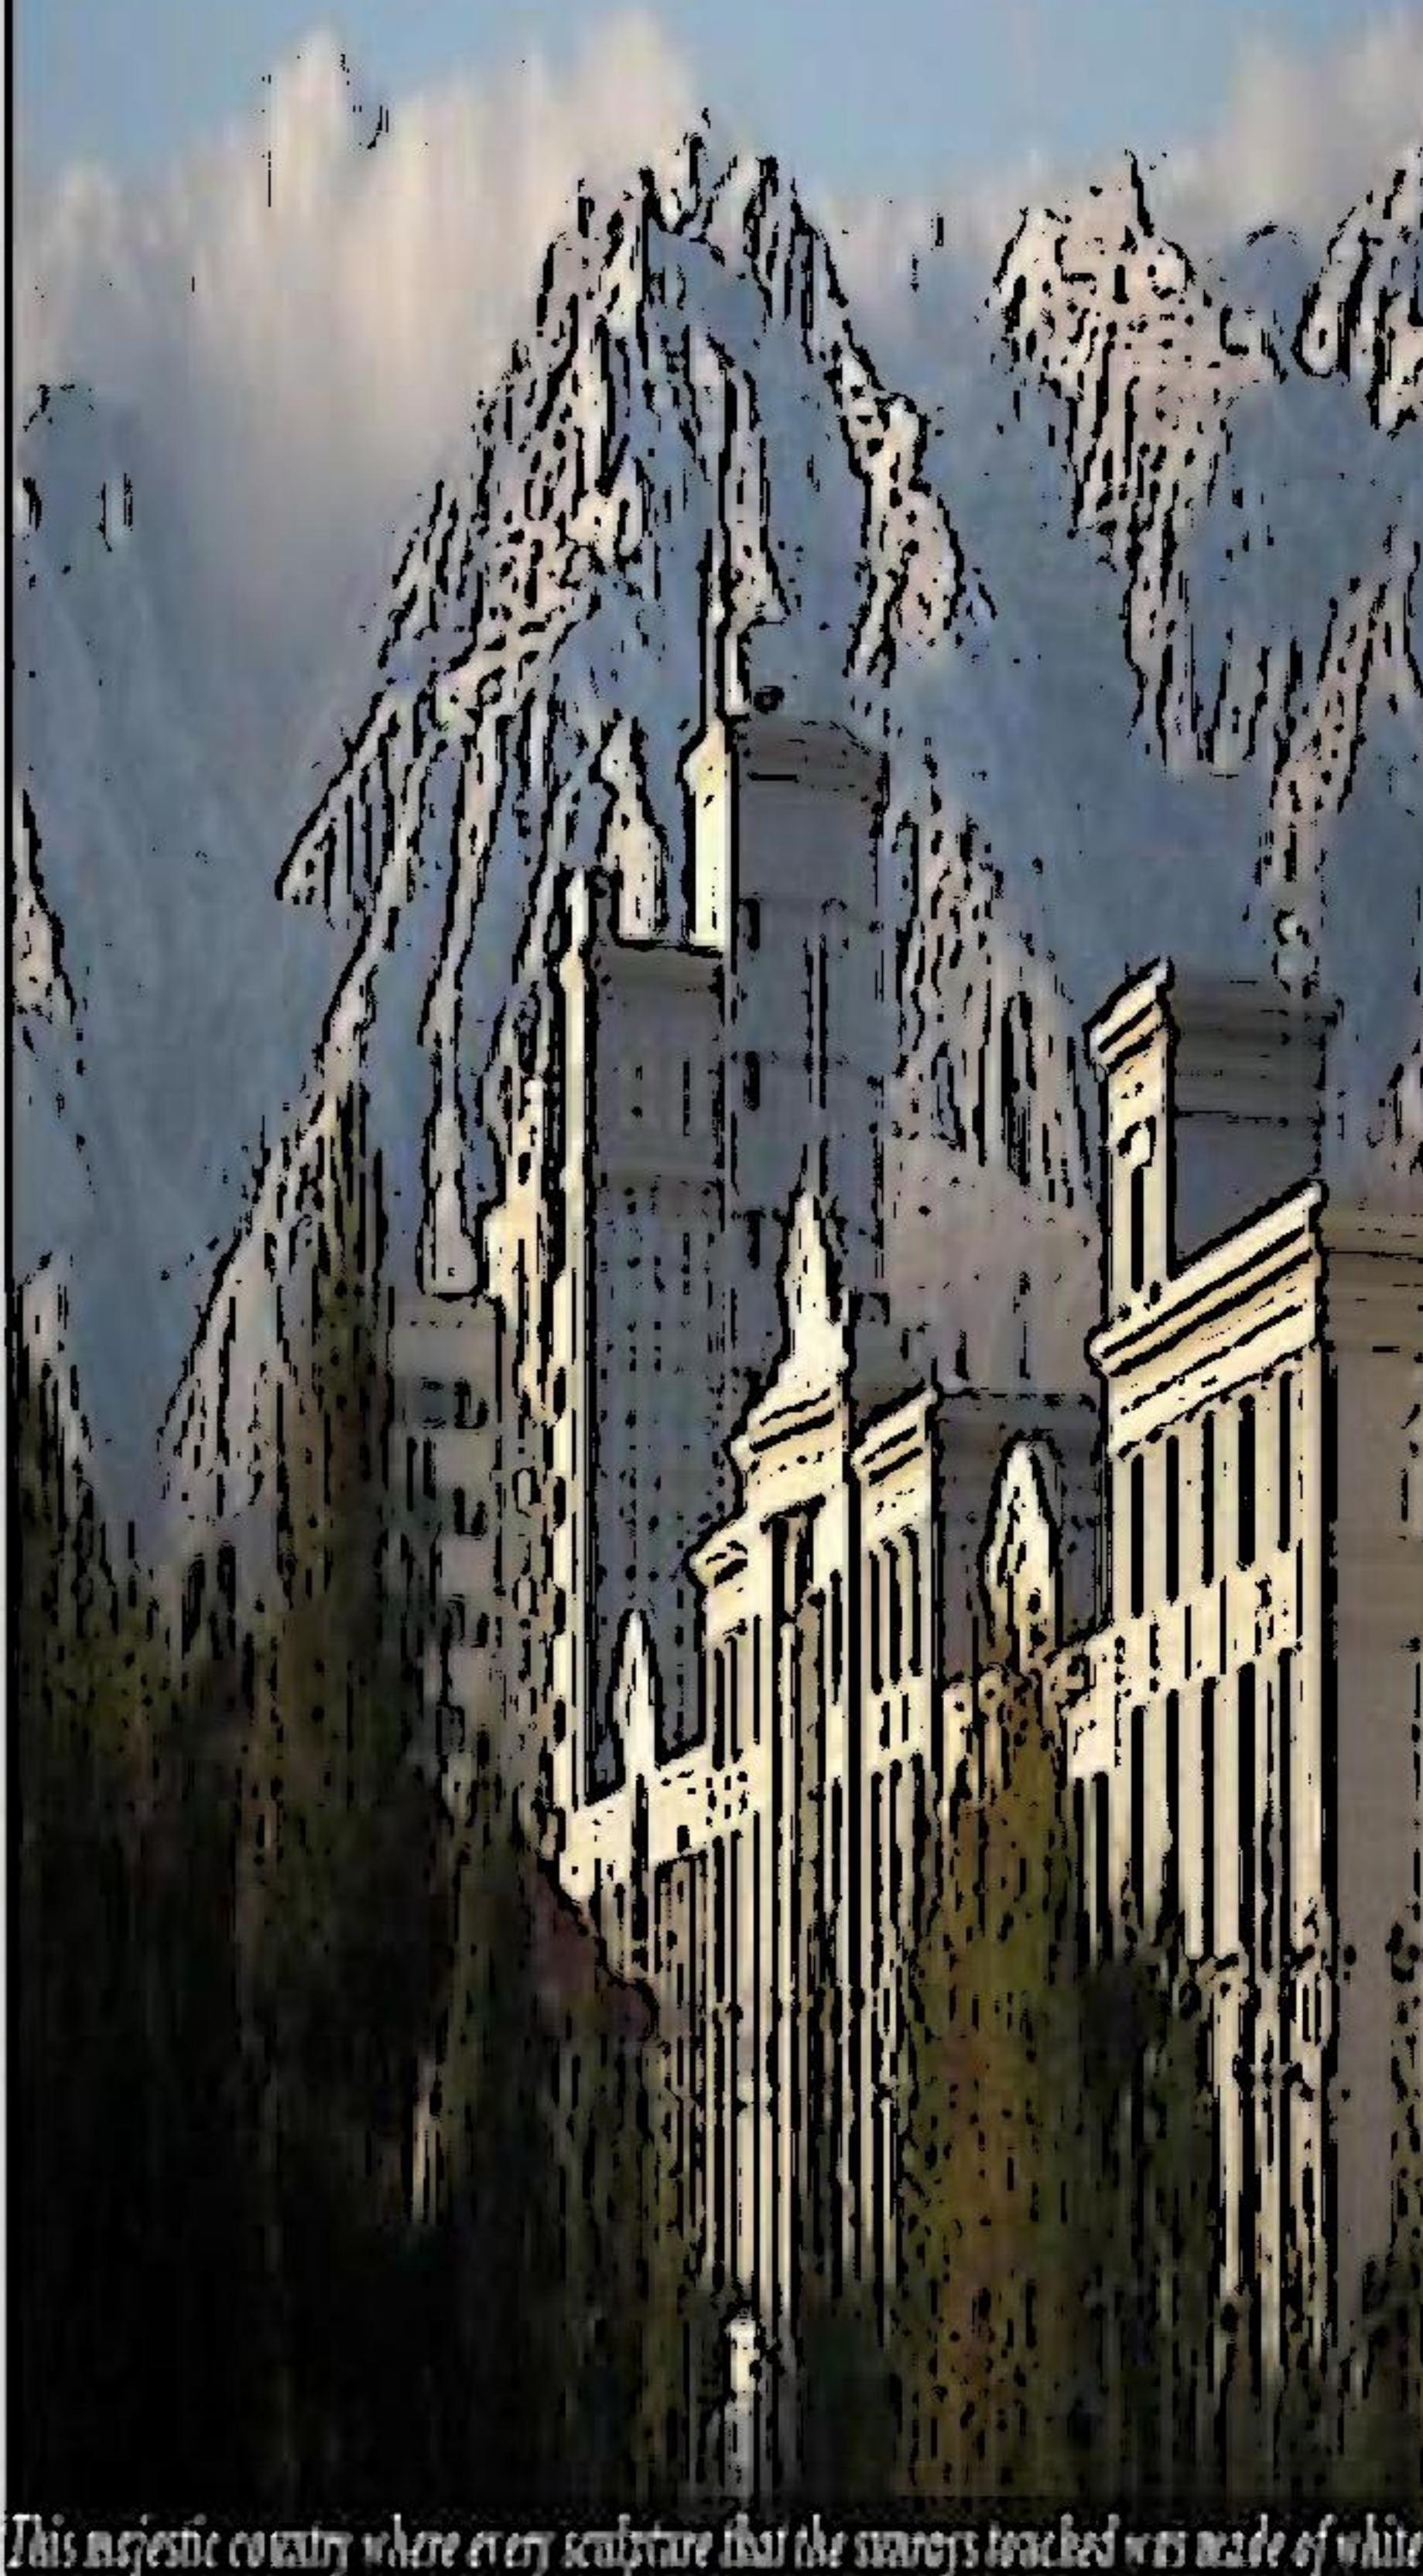

Although I have travelled to quite few countries, our country always sticks out.

TURKMENISTAN

seemingly mysterious country in central Asia, which I had been to when I was 11 years old. This majestic country where every sculpture that the swings touched was made of white mar-

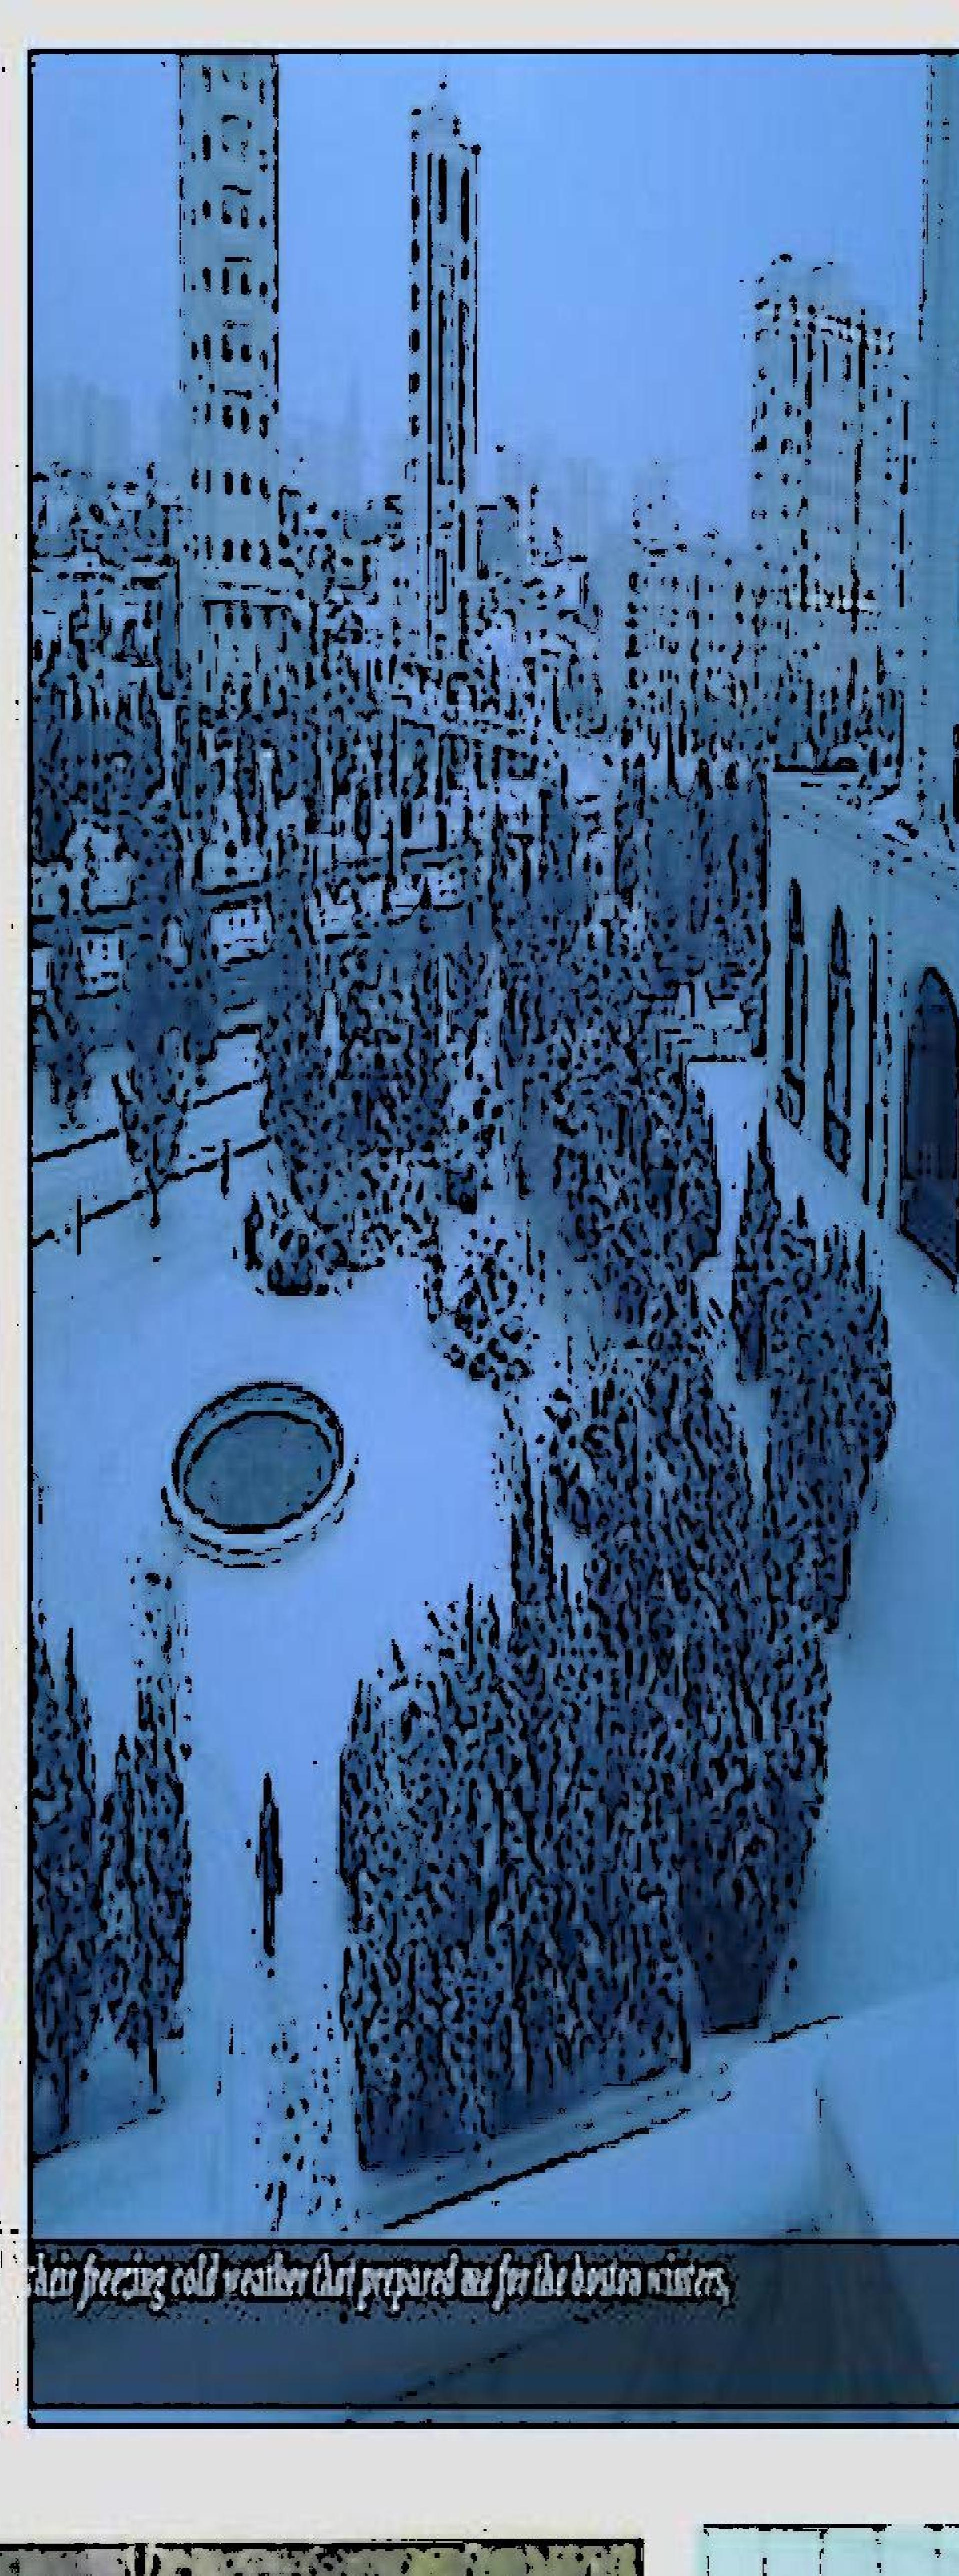

From the breathtaking backdrop of the mountain range that complements the skyline, to the 'Gates of hell' in the middle of town which is burning since the 1970's that freezing cold weather that prepared me for the Boston winters.

to the 'Gates of hell' in the middle of town which is burning since the 1970's

The place always left me in awe. From here my love for exposing myself to different cultures and I have carried friendships, memories with them.

Now a jump to 2017, my undergrad years in IT begin and throughout my 5-year experience

I realised my interest in technology and its significance in our society, which motivated me to pursue my Masters of Sciences in Information Systems at Northeastern University.

As soon as I sat foot inside the Logan airport, I was excited but was more overwhelmed by no-

This new journey brought with it some uncertainties and challenges that I did not know ho-

Since my dad seemed more optimistic about NEU than I was, it felt as a sign of good things

I met my sister after a span of 5 years in US

Whilst I did not forget my roots and who I was,

I uncovered never parts of me overtime as I took on those challenges.

I became more eager to take on never experiences, like this one time I went skiing and fell to mastering my cooking skills.

I have had an eventful first semester at NEU, and I am looking forward to the experiences that come my way in the future.

Assignment 4

Due Thursday by 11:44pm Points

You're going to write a movie script, into cartoons to make the pictures more appealing. You will also need to include a pitch deck that you can use to pitch your movie to investors. This assignment is for one student, but each student needs to write their own movie script.

There will be two submissions:

Since the deadline is approaching, I will keep this story short, but the story continues. You will submit the book in format of PDF file or Google Doc. You can use the notebook format to write the story.
